

COM-130 : Nonverbal Communication

Credits 3

Lab 0

Lecture 3

Clinical/WkExp 0

State Prerequisites

COM-110 or COM-120

Session Cycle

Not Currently Available

Description

This course introduces the contemporary study of nonverbal communication in daily life. Topics include haptics, kinesics, proxemics, facial displays, and appearance. Upon completion, students should be able to analyze/interpret nonverbal communication and demonstrate greater awareness of their own nonverbal communication habits.